

Why official science (provisionally) recognize esoterics

There can not be what science can do for what it does not suppose ...

If the assumptions, assertions and evidence of scientists, physicists, and contemporary sciences were correct, as the vast majority of them claim, the existence and incidence of parapsychological and extra-mental (ESP) phenomena and manifestations should never occur. At the same time, these phenomena and manifestations have been tested many times in the past and scientifically confirmed, they are demonstrably an integral part of our lives and our existence, they are therefore the nature of man.

Science has already shown that time is plastic, the space is curved, and the spirit of its own energy, but the main problem of why science does not recognize esotericism and especially parapsychology (for example, various real and inexplicable mysterious abilities, phenomena and phenomena) is the impossibility of repeating something at any time in the laboratory with 100% reliability and also that it can not be measured. The current level and degree of scientific knowledge does not allow this, scientists do not yet.

These phenomena and processes can not be explained and proved scientifically, since they take place beyond the limits of human knowledge, which is limited by its possibilities, and therefore at a limited level of knowledge of contemporary science it is completely beyond human understanding. What is important, however, is that for us these "miraculous" practices, processes, and processes are working in practice under certain conditions, and for some thousands of years they have proven, concrete results.

The distinction between the past, the present and the future must be understood as an illusion (Albert Einstein)

The universe is not space and time bounded. The future somehow exists already and can cast its shadow into the past. People, things, and events leave their traces of time and space.

Man has undoubtedly the power to control time and space, or to use them. It has been scientifically proven that even ordinary people are able to receive messages from tomorrow or elsewhere, even at any distance, they can also focus their gaze on the future or the past. Simple exercises can mobilize the superhuman forces.
